Take your bike Rameder carrier systems for customised solutions

The car for long distances, a bike for outings: this is an ideal holiday combination. And Rameder, Germany's leading provider of transport accessories, has a number of new bicycle carriers on offer. Interested customers can check out the Thuringian company's online shop at www.rameder.eu for a quick overview.

The best and safest carrier system are towbar carriers. All you have to consider is the maximum towbar bearing load. Stability, safety and utmost comfort are combined in, for example, the Hapro Atlas 2 Premium (€329), which is affixed with a clamping lever and will carry two bikes or e-bikes. And there is also the Hapro Atlas 3 Premium for up to 3 bikes (€349).

A compact and high-quality bicycle carrier for 2 bikes that can be upgraded for 3 is the towbar carrier Westfalia BC 70 (from €499), which is lever-mounted on the towbar in a jiff. No tools are required and it can be folded up later.

Ufo 2+ (€519) is of very low weight but a huge payload. At only 10.7 kg it is among the lightest towbar bike carriers and can take 60 kg. With the correct bearing load, this will do for 2 e-bikes. Ufo 2+1 (€629) can also carry an extra children's bike.

Bike Lift (€699) for 2 bikes is very easy to handle. It is electrically lifted and lowered. Loading and unloading bikes is thus easy and gentle on your back. It also features castors underneath. Incidentally, all the above carriers can be folded down to make your boot accessible at all times.

A recommendable alternative is the roof rack Hapro Giro (€89). It will carry a bicycle of up to 17 kg and is quick-release-mounted without any pre-assembly or tools being required.

And here is another tip: in some EU countries (e.g. Germany, Austria) a 13-pole electric lighting kit is mandatory. This particularly applies if the bike carrier hides the third brake lamp. Needless to say you can get it at www.rameder.eu too.
